

BOOZE EXTRACT TO BE OUSTED

Health Officer Says Sale of Intoxicant Flavoring to Be Ended in Week.

Sale of a brand of flavoring used in Washington and adjacent States to produce intoxication will be stopped within the week. Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, gave this as his opinion yesterday.

Dr. Fowler started a campaign to throw the drink off the market, but found that it was impossible to accomplish this under the provisions of pure food and drug laws, and has left the active part of the drive to the Internal Revenue Bureau.

The combined forces of prohibition enforcement officials, the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Health Department are considered by Dr. Fowler to be strong enough to win the fight against the sale of the drink.

The Health Department's force of food inspectors, under direction of Dr. Fowler, has gathered a mass of evidence to submit to the government authorities when it becomes known that the manufacture and sale of the flavoring can be stopped by law.

Dr. Fowler declared it probable that other flavoring extracts, containing a large percentage of alcohol, might be done away with if reports of abuse of the extracts were received.

Home Stretch Finds Merry Battle For Herald's Salesmanship Awards; Seven High Ones in Strong Field

Marshall, where he has a host of friends who are standing nobly by him in his candidacy for one of the grand awards.

Stephen Frank is a well-known employee of the N. Auth Provision Company, Center Market. He has been with this firm twenty-three years, having been head salesman for several years. Everybody knows "Steve" Frank, and he has a host of friends throughout the city. Mr. Frank is a member of the Royal Arcanum.

Miss C. M. Hirlinger, residing at 2500 M street northeast, has charge of the office and delivery for Loeffler's lunch. She is driving in third position today.

Mrs. Mabel C. Berger, a popular young matron residing at 724 Sixth street northwest, has rolled up a good credit to her standing. She stands fourth high on the honor roll.

John R. Jenkins, one of "Washington's finest" and among the best-known members of the Metropolitan Police traveling out of Precinct 8, has rolled up a good big number of credits to his standing.

Mr. Jenkins resides at 611 Gresham place and is giving a good accounting of his salesmanship ability. He will make his competitors hustle to beat him for high honors.

Determined to win.

Vilas O. Yetter, driving in sixth position, resides at the Y. M. C. A., 1736 G street northwest. He says one of the grand awards must be his, and from the number of subscriptions he is turning in it looks like he intends to make good this assertion.

Harvey W. Williams, 1002 King street, Alexandria, Va., is certainly putting that thriving city on The Herald map. From the subscriptions he is turning in from time to time it looks like The Herald will have many new readers throughout Alexandria.

Many other members of the Salesmanship Club have rolled up good-ly totals of credits and a glance over the honor roll will show that most any of several score of candidates could easily jump into high position by a little extra effort.

COX AND ROOSEVELT DECIDE TO MAKE LEAGUE MAIN ISSUE

By SAMUEL BLAIR.

The first "political meeting" he had attended since the convention.

"It was in Glenwood Springs, Colo., where we paused en route from San Francisco," he said. "Several of us made brief addresses of a nonpartisan character. But the Republican mayor of the town gave Benj. F. Torreyson, 429,000, the floor for a political complexion. He told us he was a Republican, but that he believed in the league of nations and knew the Republicans would not give it to him. For that reason, he explained, he proposed to vote the Democratic ticket."

"That's a pretty good campaign beginning, don't you think?" "Coming through the West, I was frankly surprised to learn that the Democrats are going to carry the States of Kansas, Nevada, Colorado, Missouri and Utah. There appeared to be no doubt of it, from the expressions of those I met."

Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped to visit President Wilson soon and to discuss with him certain phases of the campaign.

Only Few Disastrous.

On the results of the San Francisco convention he said: "All but one or two delegates left with a good taste in their mouths. They were satisfied with the choice of candidates and the platform selected."

Like Gov. Cox, Mr. Roosevelt anticipates a strenuous campaign.

"We are going to cover the country," he said.

The Assistant Naval Secretary expressed the hope that he might be notified of his nomination at his Hyde Park (N. Y.) home. He leaves for there tonight and will be accorded his first official reception in the village tomorrow afternoon.

A delegation of more than a thousand Ohio Democrats met Gov. Cox on the State House steps at noon today, shortly after his arrival from Dayton. A large floral tribute was presented, movie men cranked their cameras about him and the throng cheered.

"You are here to give approval to what democracy has done in San Francisco. Boys, it was just the kind of a fight out there that Democrats like. I assure you we'll give them the same kind of a fight this fall."

Globe, Ariz., July 12.—Fire swept Grover Canyon, near here, late yesterday, destroying more than 100 houses and rendering as many families homeless.

The fire was caused by an overheated stove. It is reported that two children lost their lives. The Red Cross has taken charge of the work of rescue.

Car Shortage Holds Up Potatoes.

Cape Charles, Va., July 12.—The shipment of Irish potatoes which has been progressing at a rapid rate now is retarded seriously by a car shortage. It has been reported that from seventy-five to 100 carloads of spuds were lying in the fields at Exmore. At Blotom 100 carloads of potatoes were on the station platform awaiting removal.

JEWIS DIVIDED ON LANGUAGES

New State of Zion Unable to Choose Between Hebrew
And Yiddish.

By WILLIAM SUCKERMAN.

(Washington Herald-Cross Atlantic Service—Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, July 12.—Already the national language of the new state of Zion is becoming a stumbling block to national unity of the Jews. One of the questions of paramount importance to be decided by the international conference of Zionists here is, shall Yiddish be the national language.

M. Ussishkin, who went to Palestine in October, 1919, as chairman of the Palestine commission, favors the use of the old Hebrew language; but there is strong opposition on the part of large sections of the delegates to his suggestion. In fact, he is one of the most criticized men in the Zionist movement today.

"It's not because I'm opposed to Yiddish that I have sought to prohibit its use in public gatherings," he said tonight to me, "but because I realize the necessity that we have a single language if we are to hold our individuality as a single state and a unified nation. Yiddish would certainly be a danger to this unity. The old Hebrew is the language we should adopt. These first days of our national life are ones in which sacrifices must be made. Yiddish is one of the things which we must make up our minds to lose."

Ussishkin is also strongly opposed to the program of the "Mizrachi" or Orthodox religious sect, which seeks to establish its separate religious school system in Palestine.

"We want unified control," he said. "I'm not opposed to various types of schools but do object to a double board of education."

Regarding immigration, he believes that the greatest effort should be directed to bringing as many Jews from Eastern Europe as possible, but he thinks it will take ten years before Palestine will have the several hundred thousand Jews necessary for the proper development of the country.

Ussishkin referred to the constructive work already done. "Millions of new trees have been planted," he said. "Schools have been built. Waterworks have been constructed. Sanitation has been accomplished. Workmen's houses have been erected. The trouble is that since the Balfour declaration our people have been expecting things on too grand a scale. Achievement which in former days were hailed with acclamation are now regarded as disappointing."

"The common is dissatisfied with the work which has been accomplished and is impatient to see the country built on the lines of a modern settlement."

"The only difference between us and our critics is that they have us on whom to fix the blame, where we have no one. The only real thing worth doing now in Palestine is to secure the lands, which was impossible under military occupation. With the new civil administration of Palestine a new chapter in its history is beginning. The new pages are ours on which to write. It should give us new impetus to the work that is awaiting us there."

INVESTIGATE MURDER OF 2 U. S. PROFESSORS

(Cable to Universal Service, Washington Herald and the London Daily Express.)

Warsaw, Poland, July 12.—The Polish authorities are co-operating with the American Legation in investigating the murder on July 8 of Dr. Israel Friedlander, professor of history at the Hebrew Seminary, and Dr. Bernard Cantor, a rabbi in the Free Synagogue, both of New York. Bandits robbed and murdered the two Americans at Jarominec in the Ukraine.

A chauffeur who drove the two Jewish clergymen told the authorities on their return to Lemberg that their automobile was held up by three armed and uniformed Russians, who shot Dr. Friedlander and Cantor as they were trying to escape. Later the bandits burned the automobile. Jewish residents of Jarominec buried the two victims.

6 DROWN, SCORE SAVED IN NEW YORK SURF

New York, July 12.—Six persons drowned and more than a score of others rescued from the grip of the undertow of the season was the record tonight of Sunday's bathing at Coney Island and other beaches near New York.

Walter Balles established a day's record for lives saved when he rescued eight persons from the grip of the undertow. If all the women he brought safely ashore feel the urge to marry their rescuer, Balles will be besieged by no less than five.
